We are a small team of talented indie game developers with a passion for creating games from the ground up. We have been playing, developing, and sharing our love for games with others for many years now. Our main aim with this project is to create an epic fighting game. We have been working on this project for the past three years without a fixed schedule. We also have a very active Discord channel where we regularly talk about game design, mechanics, life and other shenanigans. We're currently still in the process of discovering the Volume of Dreams, but we are aiming for a release on mobile and PC in 2019. How To Join: We are inviting you to join the creative process and help us make the game that we always dreamed of making! How To Join The Team? For more information on how to join the team, please see our projects page. Thank you, and we hope you like what you see! - BUGS, FEATURES AND MISSIONS • Outdated projects on Github. • Account management lacking. • Community has too much drama. - STAFF • More than one external contractor, Artwork. - PORTERS • Any. - PUSHERS • any. - DEVELOPERS • Any. - QA • Any. - PROCESS MANAGERS • Any. - DOCUMENTERS • Any. We are an indie game development team based in Melbourne. We are a young and inexperienced team and are currently iterating on our second title. We are looking for a 3D Artist to help with our logo and trailer for our project! We believe in making games that we would actually like to play ourselves and that we will never have to work at. We focus heavily on music, art, level design, story and characters to help get the vibe across of the game. We want to make games that our fans would want to play too. We have worked on a number of games in the past and want to create a team that works together and helps push the vision of the game. We are currently looking for quality and long term players and really see the benefit of this. We are always looking for more help in the project as well as playing each other's games to help. * Ideal Candidate * - 3D Art - UI - Sound Design - Music - Graphics - Relevant Experience - Creates high quality and detailed 3

Postoperative ileus (POI) is a frequent complication after colorectal surgery, and the development of effective prophylactic strategies for its prevention could improve patient recovery. The aim of this study was to determine predictors of POI in a consecutive series of patients undergoing abdominoperineal resection. We retrospectively analyzed the records of all patients undergoing abdominoperineal resection for rectal cancer from January 2011 to September 2016. We measured the length of stay (LOS) and grade of POI (Wong-Baker FACES pain scale). The postoperative hospitalization data were collected. Univariate and multivariate analysis were performed to determine risk factors for POI. A total of 224 patients were included in the study. The median LOS was 10 days (range, 4-23). The median length of POI was 5 days (range, 2-19). The overall incidence of POI was 20.9% (45/224). Multivariate analysis demonstrated that postoperative intravenous (IV) opioids, postoperative opioid use, age of >70 years, and American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA) class of  $\geq 3$  significantly predicted the development of POI. Postoperative opioid use and postoperative IV opioid use correlated with a significantly prolonged LOS. POI affects the recovery of patients after abdominoperineal resection for rectal cancer. Factors such as postoperative opioid use and postoperative IV opioid use were identified as predictors of POI. Southeast Asia is the largest continent in the world. It includes 17 countries and covers the eastern and southern hemispheres.
