With this rar Password Unlocker Crack, you can easily create a Windows Store app that supports both Silverlight and UWP. I'm having an issue setting the date for a DatePicker control. I have the code that raises the event handler, but the issue is that it looks like the DatePicker is not actually available. All I see is a Grid with no visible controls on it. Am I doing something wrong here? Is there a problem with my reference to the control? I've seen several other people that face the same issue but none of them have posted a solution (at least not for this issue). A: I just ran into a similar issue. says To use a UWP-powered XAML Windows Runtime component in an existing non-Windows Store app, you must add the Windows.UI.Xaml.Controls package to the Windows Store app package. For a normal Silverlight app you can use the XAML tool to open a template for DatePicker in the "Windows.UI.Xaml.Controls.DatePicker" namespace to check if it actually is there. I found the same issue as explained in your question: `this.gridDatePicker.Date = new DateTime(2018, 6, 1);` The Grid is not visible at
